Annex

Declaration on the Middle East, issued by the European Community on 29 July 1991

The Community and its member States reviewed the present developments in the peace process. They noted with satisfaction the emerging consensus on the current initiative, launched by the United States of America, to convene a peace conference leading to the beginning of negotiations between the parties.

The Community and its member States welcome the fact that a number of Arab countries have responded positively to the call in the London summit declaration of the Group of Seven by offering a suspension of the Arab boycott in return for a freeze by Israel of its settlement policy. They stress how important it is that this positive gesture be reciprocated.

They stress again the importance of overcoming final difficulties, including the question of Palestinian representation, so that a conference, to which they will make their full contribution as a participant, may now be convened shortly. They are convinced that, with the necessary political will and courage of the parties concerned, a solution to those difficulties can be found.
